'Big Shot' L.A. Gamblers Invade Seal Beach

RACING WIRE REPORTED IN CAFE THERE

'News To Us,' Menton And Jackson Say; Probe Planned By Both

Driven out of Los Angeles, so-called "big shot" gamblers have been reported to The Journal today in a dispatch from Los Angeles. "One large establishment is known to have opened in the rear of a cafe in Seal Beach, investigators for the grand jury revealed today," the dispatch said.

Race Wire Put in What probers termed a "sneak race horse" wire which relayed results from the Santa Anita races to Los Angeles is said to have been set up in a cafe in Seal Beach, the message to the Journal said.

Sheriff Logan Jackson, when informed of the developments as they came to light before the Los Angeles grand jury, said he knew of no such gambling establishments being operated as Seal Beach.

News to Menton District Attorney W. F. Menton said he knew nothing about any such gambling establishment in Seal Beach and doubted the accuracy of the report. He said he had checked all known persons who were handling bets illegally, and had put them out of business.

"It's news to me as far as Seal Beach is concerned, but we'll look into it quickly. If they are operating illegally, we'll stop them. But if they have an authorized agent and bets are placed at the track, we can't do anything about it. I understand that the racing commission allows no wires to the track. All they could do would be to telephone an agent outside the track and relay the information by wire from there."

Jackson Plans Probe Sheriff Jackson said he would launch an investigation at once and would take the proper steps (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

FLOODS STRIKE GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP)—A sudden thaw caused floods in many parts of Great Britain today. Highways in the midlands were impassable. A 50-mile-an-hour gale added to the dangers of road travel elsewhere. The abnormal rise of the Thames caused anxiety in London. Several villages in Somerset were compelled to use small boats for traveling up and down streets.

(By The Associated Press) QUAKES IN EUROPE BERLIN.—About 25,000 square miles of Baden, Wuertemberg, Hesse and parts of Bavaria experienced sharp tremors, each of from two to three seconds duration, today. Scientists said they were the most severe shocks in 24 years.

GOVERNMENT FALLS MADRID.—The 15th government of the second Spanish republic collapsed today, 16 days after it was formed, due to cabinet differences and preparations for congressional elections. Premier Calladarez' government resigned.

BOMBS MAY DEFEAT LAVA

Mauna Loa Flow Nears City

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 30. (AP)—Indications an army air attack had conquered the threatening advance of lava from Mauna Loa volcano were seen today by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, government volcanologist. He said he could not tell definitely before Tuesday whether airplane bombs dropped last Friday had broken the lava's march toward Hilo's water reservoirs. His hopeful expression came while worried Hilo residents called a mass meeting to discuss emer-

16 KILLED BY BLIZZARD ON EAST COAST

Damage Mounting Into Millions Of Dollars; Snow 6 Inches Deep

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—A raging blizzard covered the middle Atlantic coast today with six inches of snow and swept on into New England, leaving at least 16 deaths and millions of dollars of damage.

The heavy snowfall that started last night continued today with falling temperatures that in some sections dropped to zero.

More Cold Due High winds swirled the snow into deep drifts and weather bureau warned that the thermometer, hovering around 16 at midnight, would drop sharply towards night and average from eight to 10 above zero for the east.

In Atlanta alone damage was estimated unofficially at $2,000,000. Lights, heat and telephones were missing from many homes, and street car service stopped during the week-end.

Forty-five thousand men and 1300 snowplows were called out at dawn in New York to clear the streets of snow more than 3 inches deep.

Shipping Crippled Coastal shipping was disrupted, and railroad and bus service was hampered by heavy winds and snow combined with falling temperatures. Air lines in the east grounded or rerouted their planes.

The deaths of five persons in the southeast, six in Oklahoma, one in New York, and four in Philadelphia were attributed to the storm. Damage in Georgia centered in a 40-mile circle around Atlanta. Light and telephone circuits began going out Saturday evening as ice laden trees started losing branches.

Start Repairs Two hundred linemen struggled today to restore 5000 Atlanta phones, while the electric power company sent out 300 repair men.

Five to 13 inches of snow fell in the Carolinas, with bus and motor traffic virtually at a standstill. Street cars stopped in Charlotte and other cities.

In three North Carolina counties the reopening of schools was postponed. Temperatures remained below the freezing point, and many trains below Washington were delayed two or three hours.

BRUNO'S APPEAL SIDETRACKED

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 30. (AP)—Albert B. Hermann, clerk of the court of pardons said today the court formally discussed Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea for mercy but set no date for a formal hearing.

His execution has been set for the week of Jan. 13 for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. Hermann said the date for the next meeting of the court, when the case will be considered, would be arranged by him. He refused to say if it would be later this week or early next week.

Grand Jury Revelations

(EDITORIAL)

REGARDLESS of what the grand jury's findings are, a perusal of the transcript in the recent Whitney investigation, reveals the jurors had an amusing, if not somewhat trying time, attempting to sift the thing to the bottom. There appears to have been an effort on the part of the jury to spread responsibility for the Whitney irregularities instead of confining it wholly to the recorder's office. There was an equally determined scramble on the part of District Attorney W. F. Menton and Auditor W. T. Lambert to shift it from their shoulders.

One of the revealing answers by Mr. Menton, incidentally, was that he considered Miss Whitney committed no crime. The jury afterwards indicted her on 32 counts, charging misappropriation of funds and Mr. Menton's office must now prosecute the case.

Jury Foreman Hay, quizzing Mr. Menton, asked, Page 179 of the transcript:

Q.—Between Oct. 1—That is the day that you were appointed district attorney—and Nov. 12, had you heard at any time during that interval, of any similar delays (in settling with the auditor)? A.—No, no information at all on the subject.

Q.—It didn't come to your attention that the July moneys were late in being deposited? A.—In October, no.

Q.—Did any of the employees of the county at any time, in an unofficial manner, advise you that a similar delay occurred in October? A.—Of this year?

Q.—Of this year. A.—No, the first information I had of it was on the 12th of November.

NOW, TURN to Page 192 of the transcript. L. H. Eckel, chief deputy auditor, is being questioned by Juror Woodworth.

Q.—Up to Nov. 12, have you reason to believe that Mr. Lambert discussed the matter with any county official? A.—Why, I know before that date I heard him discuss it with Mr. Menton, for sure. I cannot specify a date but I know we have.

During the questioning of Mr. Menton, Juror Schmelzer asked him:

Q.—Is it your opinion, Mr. Menton, that any crime (Please turn to page 12)

Lindberghs Arrive; Delay Landing

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Liverpool port officials impatiently awaited word tonight of the hour at which the American Importer, chosen by the Charles A. Lindberghs for their sudden voyage to England, will dock.

Although the press association reported the craft had arrived off Liverpool and might dock early this evening, a dozen radio stations still were attempting to ascertain the ship's position shortly before 8 p. m.

Some watchers expressed the belief the famous little family of three might try to disembark by tender in the darkness somewhere off the coast, perhaps in the vicinity of Liverpool.

RETTY GOW WONT WORK FOR LINDY (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 30. Betty Gow told the Associated Press today that Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh have asked her to work for them again, but "I don't think I'll go."

The little Scottish nurse from whom the first Lindbergh baby was kidnapped and slain was interviewed on the top deck of a Glasgow street car while she was going to her work in a dress shop this morning.

Lindberghs Arrive She disclosed the invitation from her former employers as the Lindberghs, with their little second son, Jon, were off Liverpool aboard a cargo steamer, seeking a calm and secure life in the English countryside.

Miss Gow, a star witness at the New Jersey trial of the baby's kidnapped slayer, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicated she would continue to work in the dress shop.

Wants Normal Life She said she had heard from the Lindberghs and they had asked her to re-enter their employ. "But I don't think I'll go," she said, "All I want to do now is to be allowed to live a normal life."

DENIAL MADE BY OFFICIAL IN COURT

Case Comes Up Jan. 27; Demurrer Overruled In Ouster Action

County Recorder Justice Whitney will launch her court fight Jan. 27 to keep from being ousted from office.

Still maintaining her innocence, Miss Whitney stood before Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel today and denied the truth of a grand jury accusation charging her with willful and corrupt misconduct in office.

Miss Whitney's answer to the accusation that she had been guilty of misconduct in her handling of public funds came after Judge Scovel had ruled on a demurrer to the accusation, filed by her attorney, O. A. Jacobs. He overruled the demurrer in respect to all but two specifications in the accusation.

Two Specifications Sustained Judge Scovel sustained the demurrer in respect to two specifications on the ground that they refer to a prior term of office. Mr. Jacobs contended that a grand jury accusation will not lie against his client for any offense committed in a prior term.

Immediately after the ruling on the demurrer, Judge Scovel asked Miss Whitney to stand up. She did so and the court asked her if she denied the truth of the accusation. "I do, your honor. I do," Miss Whitney replied in a low voice.

Court Sets Trial Date The court then set the case for trial Jan. 27. A moment later Miss Whitney conferred briefly with her attorney. He told her the proceedings were over for today and she walked from the court room.

During the argument on the demurrer she sat close to the gate in the railing, leading to the spectators' part of the courtroom. She was dressed in black. Several times she was shaken by a cough. She listened carefully to the argument of her attorney and remarks of the court.

Sustaining of Mr. Jacobs' demurrer, without leave to amend, would have meant that the case (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

TWO KILLED IN FAMILY ROW

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—A mother and her daughter were shot to death and a son and the children's stepfather were wounded today after a family quarrel in a west side apartment. Police Captain Albert Mikes said the shooting was done by the stepfather.

The women killed were Mrs. Penelope Mikes, 31, and her 17-year-old daughter, Lulu Voormas. The wounded were Louis Voormas, 16, and Philip Mikes, 34, a milk wagon driver.

Liquor Conditions Are Now Worse Than Old Days, Says Local Woman Here 40 Years

(Editor's note—What of the liquor problem in California? Where are we heading? Back to prohibition, say many. Included in this number are some who are not radical on the subject. Should the control of the business be taken away from the state board of equalization? Are state-controlled liquor stores desirable? These and scores of other questions are to be answered in a series of articles in The Journal, of which this is the fourth. Opinions will be largely those of Santa Ana and Orange county citizens, expressed on both sides of the controversial liquor question.)

By BOB GUILD The woman who gave this interview on the liquor question as it affects Santa Ana and California today will have to remain anonymous. She has lived in Santa Ana for more than 40 years, and has decided ideas, not only on liquor, but on publicity. "I'm perfectly willing to tell you," she said, "that prohibition was a darn fool law, but I'm not going to tell you what I think if my name's going in the paper." She has seen Santa Ana through the saloon days, "when there were

'FIRST LADY' AND AL SMITH CLASH

Political circles were stirred today over an open clash between Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, and Al Smith, one-time governor of New York and Democratic Presidential candidate in 1928. Mr. Smith refused Mrs. Roosevelt's invitation to spend the night of Jan. 25 in the White House when he goes to Washington for an address before the American Liberty League. Said Mrs. Roosevelt: "We have invited Mr. Smith and his wife to the White House every time we have noticed they were to be in Washington and he has never accepted." Said Mr. Smith: Mrs. Roosevelt's statement is false. I have been invited only once besides this last time and that time I accepted an invitation to a 5 o'clock tea."

30-Day Option On Park Sought

The city council, in an attempt to gain more time in which to decide the question of buying a 20-acre park site for $28,500, will ask for an additional 30-day option on the property, it was decided today at an informal meeting of council, park board and forestry board.

Funds for the purchase of the property are available, it was explained, in the unappropriated reserve fund, of approximately $70,000. This fund, Auditor Banks said, represents a net income of 10 per cent over city expenses. It also was explained that the money, if taken from this fund to pay for the park site, would be considered a "loan" to the city, and would be paid back inside of a year's time, through tax revenue from other sources or departments.

The reserve fund, Auditor Banks and Mayor Fred Rowland said, is kept at the $70,000 figure through adjustment of the city tax rates. If a surplus accumulates it is used either to lower tax rates within the city or to defray outside and unexpected expenses.

A hope that the surplus this year would exceed the $100,000 mark was abandoned last week when general utilities taxes of more than $30,000 were paid "under protest," tying this fund up for six months.

Unavailable for Year If the park purchase is made, it was shown, the funds paid out would not be available next year, either to lower tax rates within the city, or to help defray expected increases in the Metropolitan water district rates, a former possibility.

An additional $100,000 would be necessary to prepare the property for tax purposes, doubtless causing an increase in tax rates, or at (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

DEATH TAKES WAR HERO

Gen. Hunter Liggett, German Occupation Army Head, Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP) Lieutenant-General Hunter Liggett, one-time Indian fighter, hero of the Marne and commander of the German occupation, died today in Letterman hospital at the Presidio here. He was 78.

General Liggett had been in the hospital since January, 1935. His wife, Mrs. Harriet Lane Liggett, in frail health, remained there also during the long months of his last illness. They had no children.

One of the two men given rank of lieutenant general in active overseas service during the World war, the general was in command of 1,000,000 men of the A. E. F., and the French armies. Though he retired in 1921 with his pre-war status of major-general, in 1930 through an act of congress.

As a 23-year-old second lieutenant recently graduated at West Point, he led a platoon of infantry to successful battle against hostile Sioux Indians in Montana in 1879. In 40 below zero weather, he helped capture Chief Gall, Indian leader of the Custer massacre, at the battle of Foplar Creek. He saw active service on the Mexican border, in Cuba and the Philippines.

He commanded the first American army corps to take its place in the fighting lines in France, and his brilliant record led to his being placed by Gen. John J. Pershing at the head of the first American army, Oct. 16, 1918, just before the November "big push" and the war's close.

CLASH MARKS 'SNUB' OF PRESIDENT

'Happy Warrior' Denies 'Many Invitations' To Visit White House

Al Smith celebrated his 62nd birthday today by virtually calling Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt "a liar."

Associated Press reports to The Journal revealed a clashing exchange of words between the nation's "first lady" and the one-time presidential candidate. The controversy arose out of Mr. Smith's refusal to park his famous brown derby in the White House when invited by Mrs. Roosevelt to spend the night there.

Now a passionate critic of the New Deal, Mr. Smith will address the American Liberty League in Washington Jan. 25. Mrs. Roosevelt sent the former "happy warrior" and Mrs. Smith an invitation to remain at the White House during his stay in Washington.

"I have invited Mr. and Mrs. Smith to stay with the President and myself every time I noticed they were going to be in Washington," Mrs. Roosevelt said in effect.

'Statement Is False' In New York, Mr. Smith had a different story to tell, in a birthday interview. "Just to keep the records straight—"

"Mrs. Roosevelt's statement is false. Since the inauguration of President Roosevelt I received only one invitation, through Secretary McIntyre, when it was known that I was to attend a meeting of the trustees of Catholic University at Washington," declared Al.

"That invitation was to tea at 5 o'clock and I accepted. It is the only one I ever received up to the one that came last week from Mrs. Roosevelt, which was promptly acknowledged. We might just as well keep the record straight."

Whether Mr. Smith has been invited once or a dozen times to accept the overnight hospitality of the chief executive, and his erstwhile close friend, political observers noted that his refusal to accept Mrs. Roosevelt's latest invitation revealed a split between the Roosevelts and the Smiths.

ETHIOPIANS SPEED UP DEFENSE, SLAY 52 ITALIANS IN BATTLE

BLACKS BEGIN FIRST MAJOR OFFENSIVE

Invaders Use Airplanes To Turn Back Natives In Webbe Shibeli

By the Associated Press
Premier Mussolini's Black Shirt troops lost 52 Italian and native soldiers in a Sunday battle at Uariue, said a government announcement at Rome today, as Ethiopia apparently flung itself into the conflict determined to thwart the enemy advance with large-scale military operations.

The Italian communique added "heavy Ethiopian losses" occurred. Airplanes Help
Marshal Pietro Badoglio advised Rome Italian airplanes aided a detachment of Ethiopian troops, which had gone over to the Italians, to defeat numerous Ethiopian forces in the upper Webbe Shibeli valley.

While Emperor Haile Selassie consolidated his forces in the north for what was described in dispatches from Addis Ababa as the first major counter offensive by Ethiopians in the three-month-old war, Premier Mussolini laid plans for the pursuit of his campaign in East Africa.

He told his ministers the Franco-British peace terms, now defunct, were "very far from satisfying the minimum requirements of Italy."

Explains Delay
Il Duce told his cabinet the recent delay in military advances at the front was "absolutely indispensable" to consolidate occupied territory and to "facilitate future movements of several hundred thousand men." He added the League of Nations' economic siege had been resisted "effectively."

The French parliamentary dispute over foreign policy resulted in the resignation of Premier Andre Tardieu from the Republican center party which he once led.

The capital city of Ethiopia was jubilant over reports from the Dessaye that at last the King of Kings had ordered his warriors to battle the invaders on something more than a skirmishing basis.

For more than a fortnight the Ethiopians have become increasingly bold in coming to close grips with the Italians, and word from Addis Ababa said a vast encircling movement apparently threatened the northern Fascist forces under Marshal Badoglio.

MORE ABOUT WHITNEY

would not go to trial. If it had been sustained with leave to amend, Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis would have made the necessary changes in the accusation and the proceedings would have gone ahead at a later date.

Mr. Jacobs made two main points in his argument. He contended that each specification in the accusation should make the direct statement that Miss Whitney was county recorder at the time of the asserted offenses. The court held that since the direct statement was made in the introductory part of the accusation, this was sufficient.

How Many Voted?
The second defense contention was that the accusation should state how many of the 19 grand jurors voted in favor of bringing the accusation against Miss Whitney. He said at least 12 votes in favor of the accusation were required. Judge Scovel ruled that this was not necessary. His ruling on the edumure was made without hearing arguments by Mr. Davis.

Sustaining of the demurrer in respect to two points in the accusation leaves nine specifications on which the trial will be based. Each one accuses Miss Whitney of failing to make her monthly report with the auditor on the due date, and with using funds from a succeeding month to make her deposits with the treasurer for the month in which she assertedly was short.

Civil, Not Criminal Action
The accusation simply seeks to have Miss Whitney removed from office. It is a civil, rather than a criminal matter, and is entirely separate from an indictment against her, also filed by the grand jury. If convicted of charges in the indictment, Miss Whitney would not be eligible for probation. Conviction of the offense carries with it a two-year term in the county jail.

S. B. Kaufman, former district attorney, and counsel for Miss Whitney in the indictment proceedings, has indicated that he will file certain objections to the indictment but has not revealed the nature of these objections.

MORE ABOUT CITY PARK

any rate preventing any lowering of the rates.

The objection has been raised that a transfer of funds from the reserve fund for park purposes would mean an increased levy of from 10 to 14 cents to pay the MWD (Metropolitan Water District) rates. It will be 1938 before any revenue can be expected from the MWD.

MWD Rate Higher
In 1934 the MWD tax was 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation; this year the rate amounts to 20 cents, and city officials expect an increase to the neighborhood of 40 cents next year.

The fund in question by which the park would be paid is not the water fund, Auditor Banks said, although it has been labeled that for bookkeeping purposes. Increases in valuation have caused an unexpectedly rosy outlook and the prospects of an increased surplus as a "buffer" fund.

Although the city may purchase the park site property as an investment, Mayor Rowland said, it will not improve the property for park purposes without a direct vote of the people of Santa Ana.

Prospective Site
Hence the city would be holding the property as a prospective site, with a loss of some $3500 to the city tax rolls, and no income to compensate, except from sale of walnuts on the property.

The question resolves to this:

Thomas J. Flanagan, 31, of 512 Indianapolis street, Huntington Beach, who was arrested Saturday on charges of arson, today pleaded guilty to the charges before Justice of the Peace K. E. His arrest followed an investigation by Huntington Beach after he had reported a blaze in his home.

According to reports made by Huntington Beach police, Flanagan himself was the first to report the blaze to firemen. Upon reaching the house Fire Chief J. K. Sargent discovered the fire had apparently started in the center of the building as the result of several smaller blazes.

MORE ABOUT AL SMITH

former New York governor probably will never hang over night in the White House hallways, they pointed out, and that fact should shed some light on Mr. Smith's yet unannounced stand in the 1936 presidential race.

President Roosevelt was the man who nominated Al Smith for the Presidency at the Democratic convention in Houston, Tex., in 1928. Mr. Roosevelt tackled the "happy warrior" title on Smith at that time. Since Smith's crushing defeat of that year and President Roosevelt's subsequent rise to power, the paths of the two politicians have separated widely. The "happy warrior" has joined forces with the anti-New Deal American Liberty league, while Smith has been labeled that for bookkeeping purposes. Increases in valuation have caused an unexpectedly rosy outlook and the prospects of an increased surplus as a "buffer" fund.

Although the city may purchase the park site property as an investment, Mayor Rowland said, it will not improve the property for park purposes without a direct vote of the people of Santa Ana.

SIX HURT IN WRECK; CAR HITS TRAIN

Three accidents in Orange county over the week-end put six persons in hospitals, two of whom are near death.

Four were seriously injured early yesterday when a car driven by Forest Williams, 2532 Beverly avenue, Ocean Park, crashed head-on into the side of a Santa Fe passenger train at the Orange-thorpe avenue crossing near Fullerton. Riding with Mr. Williams were his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dess Williams, all of the same address. The injured were taken to the Fullerton General hospital.

Forest Williams and his mother were believed by hospital attaches to be in a critical condition today. The other two were unconscious until a late hour yesterday, but were believed recovering today.

Car Demolished

Highway Patrolman Horace Inge, who investigated the accident, said he has been unable to talk to any of the persons involved, and for that reason he could not say definitely why the driver of the car had driven into the side of the train. The car was demolished.

Pete Smith, 336 East Walnut street, Santa Ana, is in the Orange county hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg, compound fracture of the left arm and fractured ribs sustained at 8:30 p. m. yesterday when he was struck by a car at First and Cypress streets, Santa Ana. The car was driven by Willard Noe, 1020 North Olive street, Santa Ana.

Japanese Hurt

Shige Nakayama, 1316½ King street, Santa Ana, suffered injuries early yesterday, when he drove his car into a machine parked in front of 2305 West Fifth street. The parked car, registered to Isaac Eisenstein, 262 South Center street, Orange, was knocked into the rear of a truck and badly damaged. Mr. Nakayama immediately left the scene of the accident and drove to his home. The owner of the parked car telephoned police and gave them the license number of Mr. Nakayama's car, thinking that he had been the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

A short time later, Mrs. Nakayama telephoned the police station and told officers her husband was seriously injured. Dr. Arthur Wade went to their home, and ordered Mr. Nakayama confined to bed. He said the man was too seriously injured to be transferred to a hospital until late today.

SAM L. COLLINS ON WAY EAST

Congressman Sam L. Collins is on his way to Washington, D. C. He left Santa Ana by automobile yesterday, and plans to be present for the opening of the second session of the seventy-fourth congress on Friday.

Mr. Collins, who is accompanied on the trip by members of his family, is taking the southern route to the east. Congressman Collins, who represents the nineteenth district, which includes Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, was formerly district attorney for Orange county. He is a member of the Indian affairs, military affairs, election No. 1 and census committees of the house.

Miss Pauline Knapp, secretary to Mr. Collins, will remain in Santa Ana until the end of February. She will be in charge of the congressman's offices until her departure for Washington.

Roosevelt's work schedule today for the closing hours of 1935. On three occasions last week, Mr. Roosevelt remained in his White House study to mold into final form the report he will make to congress on the "state of the union."

All Dec. 30 guessers in the contest, including Gregory Solis, Mrs. Minnie Amailla, Matt Lujan, and Eugene Kelley, seem doomed to have their guesses outlawed today, as the sun struggled through clouds overhead.

New Guesses
Akana Imamura, Japanese weather prophet of Laguna Beach, may be in line to win The Journal umbrella, if the weatherman's prophecy is correct. Mr. Imamura guessed Dec. 31, in the early morning.

Mrs. Thomas E. Owens, 1011½ Cypress street, writes in today to guess that the rain will start falling in earnest on Jan. 1, at 12:01 p. m.

L. E. Rarabough, 629 Garfield street, sends in his prediction Feb. 1 at 11 a. m.

POLICE RADIO DOES WELL! AUTO LICENSE PLATES HERE

Much Help, But No Burglar!

Orange county's law enforcement agencies believe in efficiency and service. One of their strongest assets is the police radio, and frequently it has materially aided in the apprehension of criminals. Friday night, as the result of a telephone call from John Cozad, Tustin avenue, a general broadcast was sent out.

DRIVERS IN TWO TRAFFIC DEATHS ARE EXONERATED

Two coroner's inquests held on Friday into deaths caused by traffic accidents in Orange county resulted in exoneration of all persons involved.

The jury found that Mrs. Esolastica Basabe, 45, Fullerton, who was killed in a traffic accident Dec. 24 at Highland and Commonwealth avenues, Fullerton, came to her death as the result of an unavoidable accident. The driver of the car which collided with Mrs. Basabe's machine was J. W. Wallace, 906 South Palm street, Anaheim.

Fidel Linaria, 45, Whittier, who was killed when he walked into the side of a car driven by William F. Morgan, Santa Ana, near Doheny Palisades, came to his death in an accidental manner. The driver of the car was not held to blame.

Issuance of the new license plates commences Jan. 2, and will continue until the end of the month, Capt. Henry C. Meehan, head of the Orange county division of the patrol, said.

MORE ABOUT LIQUOR

been wine," she said, "but there has always been sobriety, too."

"I think that nobody is sensible about the way they drink now," she said. "Liquor is about as easy to get as it was in the old days, but we've forgotten the old rules of drinking."

Tradition Lacking
"Women never went into the old saloons. They were men's places, and there weren't any chairs, and you had to go through a swinging door to get in."

She believes there was a tradition about drinking that is lacking now, and that is harmful to society as a whole as it is affected by you.

Asked about state control of the industry, she said: "Why should we turn one more thing over to the state to make a mess of? I'm a Californian, but I believe that the one thing wrong with this state is too much politics."

"Play No Favorites"
"Sure the local police ought to handle the question of regulating the business," she said. "And they ought not to play any favorites, either. How can we make a law respected if we don't make it apply equally to everyone?"

"That was our trouble in the prohibition days, and is now. The important people don't get arrested for breaking minor laws."

"But after all," she remarked, "this is a problem for today, and has to be settled by today's people, not us old folks."

Urges More Decency
"I think the solution for the liquor problem is not more laws, but more decency and more common sense."

"A lot of people who are running these things are so educated they don't have any common sense any more. If they did have they wouldn't let a thing like this scare them to death."

"If you think this isn't a typical woman's point of view. Most people think I've got darn fool ideas. But we'll work this problem out, if we only let it be a man's problem, and don't try to get us all mixed up in it."

'DEPARTMENT STORE' BRAINS

Test Indicates We Have 'em

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Discovery of a human brain center, the first definitely located, a bit of gray matter that specializes in only one kind of mental work, was described to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

This center is a spot near the top of the head which works the jaws. It was found by an electric telegraph line of exceedingly fine wires, placed for the first time directly in living tissues of gray matter.

It is the first human contact confirmation that recent medical and other scientific brain studies are on the right track in belief that man's brain is organized like a department store.

Done Through "Window"
The work was done through a brain window, a place where part of the skull of a normal healthy man had been permanently removed, leaving access to the brain through a thin covering of scalp.

Dr. Edmund Jacobson, of the physiology department of the University of Chicago, developed the electrical telegraph method of tapping the mental activities directly behind this window.

The brain window is in the head of a man, a dairy farmer. The fine wires cause no pain, and in the gray matter not even any feeling.

They are placed during experiments which last about two hours, then removed.

Location Told
The jaw center which they have disclosed lies on a line drawn from the left temple, straight up, and about two-thirds of the way from the temple to the top of the head. It lies nearly two inches under the surface of the left half of the brain.

From this center when the jaws are at rest, flows a steady pulsating electrical current, the same brain waves which scientists have previously identified from all parts of the brain with pick-up instruments placed outside the skull.

"Whenever he closed his jaws tightly," Dr. Jacobson reported, "this particular spot in his brain became very active, but only so long as he continued to keep them tightly closed. When he relaxed his jaws this brain spot quieted down in its electrical activity—that is, it relaxed also."

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WE saw lots of things to admire in San Juan Capistrano Saturday evening, but the very best was a private exhibition by Johnnie Aguilar in the mission courtyard, when he displayed his abilities as a goldfish-caller.

Having heard tales of ability of some folk to make noises which would attract fish, we followed Johnnie with great interest. He approached the pool without a sound, sat down on the edge and started calling "fishy-fishy" in alluring tones. Just about when we were ready to shout "Hoax," the fish started swimming toward the caller, and soon the water was alive with them in the vicinity of Johnnie.

As a reward, the mission attendant threw them some food, which they gulped greedily, while others were still arriving at the edge of the pool, lured by the expert's calls.

We're preparing a contract to offer Johnnie for our next fishing trip. With that ability of his, couldn't he make our usual fishless angling expeditions a howling success?

However, all foolishness aside, Johnnie has one of the most wonderful collections we've ever seen in his adobe house on El Camino Real in Capistrano.

It would seem that he's been collecting relics of the district all his life—he has documents which should be priceless. He sleeps each night in a four-poster bed which came around the Horn when Orange county was a stamping ground for Jackrabbits, and not much else. Branding irons from nearly all old ranches of the district, Indian implements for grinding corn and acorns, ancient swords and pistols, picked up from early battlefields—it would take a week to tell about what Johnnie has, and we saw only a part of his collection.

Some day we're going to ask for a week off and go down and really find out what he's collected.

Ray Felton, our boss, saved the day—or rather, the night, at San Juan Saturday.

Residents had blocked off La Plaza street for the dance. They'd put up boards and red lanterns, so parked cars wouldn't spoil the view for visitors.

Along about supper time, state highway officials appeared, and said that they couldn't allow the street to be closed, as it connected with Ortega highway.

Just when those in charge of the fiesta were ready to come down with severe attacks of the screaming jitters, The Boss appeared and convinced the officials that they should let the fiesta proceed. From remarks we heard, the pueblo people appreciated the action, too.

Seen at San Juan's banquet: Mr. and Mrs. David Prenter, Dana Pointers, carrying on a conversation with Mayor and Mrs. A. T. Smith from the neighboring community of San Clemente. . . . Francis J. Sheridan, secretary-manager of the mission, handing musicians into the dining room. . . . Dr. Huston, from Costa Mesa, talking about Christmas lighting. . . . Mr. and Mrs. William A. Maxwell, of Capistrano publishing family, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Greenside, Doheny Park. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Saxe, San Clemente, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Nydegger, Alfonso Yorra in his Spanish costume, Harvey J. Larkin, Dr. and Mrs. Herb Stroschein, Mr. and Mrs. M. Parker, Capistrano, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Buchein, and lots of others.

Perhaps attendants at the banquet didn't realize it, but they were honored with some unique music during the dinner hour.

Ramon Yorra, who has lived in the community all his life, and has learned much of the early-day music by ear, had gone to great pains to obtain a special number for the banquet. As he entered the hall, leading Jose Doran, Mission Indian, and David Yorra, both guitar players, he struck up a tune which lots of listeners thought was an Irish jig. It really was an authentic Indian march, called "Diana" and was played during the early days of the mission at San Juan. Descendants passed the song along from generation to generation, until Ramon finally learned the music.

'HOOK' BEARDSLEE WINS STAR CLASS EVENT AT NEWPORT

MANY BOATS DISMASTED IN STORM

Finals in Yacht Races And New Year's Dance Feature Regatta

NEWPORT BEACH.—H. L. "Hook" Beardslee, International Star boat champion, added another regatta victory to his long string of wins here yesterday, when he sailed his famous "By-C" to victory over a large field of contestants in the midwinter regatta which ended here yesterday.

The regatta came to a boisterous and windy end on the inner-bay course as a storm swept across the bay and dismasted or disabled a number of boats. However, a large number of boats faced the gale which blew all yesterday morning and hundreds of yachting enthusiasts were present to witness the final races in the first staging of what is expected to be an annual event.

Many visiting yachtsmen put to sea following the races, in spite of the storm, and sailed to their home ports. Others motored to their homes. Final results of the regatta were:

Eight-Meter Class

Wroolie, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Swales, and others in making the party a huge success.

Commodore and Mrs. Rohl, Staff Commodore Owen E. Churchill and Mrs. Churchill stayed during the regatta at the Newport Harbor Yacht club. Mr. and Mrs. George L. Johnson opened their summer home and Dave Howard, moving picture star, and Mrs. Howard, are on vacation at this point and are staying at the cruiser, Florence. The Websters opened their son, Tom, and his bride during the holiday season.

Coast Linnies

By McDONALD WHITE

It was the day before Christmas in Laguna.

Scene: Red Cross headquarters. Time: All day. Dozens of big cardboard boxes were grouped in front of the building. Half a dozen women were going back and forth from the building to the boxes with armloads of groceries—copious dinners for the needy. Every family on the list was going to have a box. Under the capable leadership of Mrs. George Dunham, a careful selection of foodstuffs went into each box. Allowances were made for the number of children in the family. Bachelors, for example, got ham instead of a chicken, as lonely gentlemen aren't supposed to know how to cook a chicken!

Also the size of the chicken in each family box was determined by the number to be served. There were big chickens and little chickens, although none of them looked very little. All were wrapped and freshly chilled from the butcher shop. Toys and candy were poked into vacant corners of some of the boxes, depending on the identification number.

It was only a little after 10 in the morning, but the boxes were nearly packed. Large cabbages, carrots, turnips, potatoes, everything necessary for a fine Christmas dinner found its way into those big boxes.

Donations were coming in every few minutes. Augustus Thomas brought in five pounds of honey, all packed in small glass jars.

REPORT OIL BOOM IN OLD BEACH DRILLING AREA

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—

Three new wells are reported on production in the old Huntington Beach oil field near the site of the old sugar factory and other wells now being drilled will soon be placed on the pump, according to a survey made of that section of the field.

The Lucky Strike Oil company has completed its Lucky Strike No. 5 on Golden West avenue and bottom of hole is reported at about 4200 feet.

Dan D. Dunlap has placed Kirk No. 1, near Main street, between Summit and Garfield avenues, on the pump. Also the Duke &

Others brought candy. A local business man, passing by, stopped to inquire of Mrs. Dunham if any more money was needed. It was, and he generously handed over $2, which he hoped would help out a little. The money was immediately dispatched to buy more canned tomatoes which was a scarce item at the moment.

Just to show how complete these boxes were, the contents included the following frills and staples: Potatoes, onions, tomatoes, Carrots, cabbage, canned tuna, tea, milk, honey, rice, shortening, bread, bacon, pie, cranberry sauce, apples, flour, coffee, candy, celery, margarine, corn and ham or chicken.

Dozens of local families were made happy on Christmas by these Red Cross gift boxes.

By late afternoon it was discovered that there was a box or two extra, so that's how it happened that Hobo Hotel, four miles south of Laguna, got one of them.

It was a revelation to see the light in those fellow's eyes when they first saw the contents of that big box. Ed Kinloch, who is the body of the manager there now in the absence of John "Limp" Hunter, ordered a swartthy chap who called himself "Mack" to tote the grub into camp. Their mouths were fairly watering with hunger. Having lived on such elemental fare as baked potatoes and canned beans for so long, crisp stalks of celery, french vegetables, pie and real ham, seemed a veritable godsend, which of course it was.

There was still another young fellow occupying the third shack of this group. He called himself "Jim." Incidentally, one soon learns that it's bad etiquette to ask anyone's name there. You should say, "What do they call you, buddy?" Or something like that. The shacks were all intact, same as the last visit. Hobo Hotel is a unique settlement which draws its clientele from the men who migrate along the highway. They live and eat on a cooperative basis, each contributing his share to the common food store.

Ed Kinloch gets odd jobs gardening around the outlying districts of town. Two dollars a week is enough to live on, he says. He told about being shanghaied from Tacoma, Wash., in 1895, and being "on the bum," more or less, ever since. He thought Borah had the best chance to be our next president.

Mack and Jim were for Roosevelt, because he was helping the farmers. And Jim, who carries a road map in his coat pocket, followed the transient work and makes most of his living from farmers. He said there were fewer professional hobos in California than in any other state. In Kansas City he said he used to sit on the curb until a farmer would come along and offer him work.

Mack is an ex-navy man who is doing short jobs, enough to get by. He's traveled all over the world, likes to be "on the bum," but said he would rather live in a city if he could get regular work. Thinking of his navy days, he said, "When ever I put into some port and the pilot would board the ship, the first thing the Old Man would ask him was, 'Did you bring a newspaper?'"

Of course that was a hint that if a late newspaper had been included in the big box of food, there would have been complete. But they wanted to thank the Red Cross with genuine thankfulness.

LOCAL ANGLERS HAPPY! Bonita Arrive at Newport

NEWPORT BEACH.—Local waters are filled with bonita, the greatest and earliest run recorded in many years, it has been reported by fishermen. Usually this fine eating fish does not appear until late in February or early in March.

Commercial fishermen brought in several tons yesterday, in spite of a squall which tossed the boats about like crackerboxes.

Three sporting anglers from Buena Park caught 14 bonita for their Sunday supper when the squall struck and they were drenched as huge combers splashed into their boat, almost upsetting it. Other sport fishermen had many more fish to their credit before the storm struck about 11 a. m.

The bonita are large, ranging in size from six to eight pounds.

TWO EVENTS ARE CLIMAX OF FIESTA

Dances And Banquet At Capistrano Feature 'Sanctuary' Week

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—To the strumming of guitars and clicking of castanets, descendants of early California families danced "La Jota," "El Jarabe," the "Polka" and many other old-time dances under the walls of the old mission here Saturday night as the feature of "sanctuary" week, which closes Tuesday evening.

On the very site of the old mission plaza, dozens of pairs of dancers performed in the complicated measures of the early-day dances, to the music of a local orchestra which played tunes known soon after establishment of the mission in San Juan Capistrano.

Also featuring "sanctuary" week was a banquet in the Capistrano hotel, attended by nearly 100 residents and friends of the community.

Priest Talks

The Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson, resident priest at the mission, was honored guest at the dinner. He told of his appointment to fill the place of Father O'Sullivan at the mission and of his efforts to carry on work of the mission.

Also Father O'Sullivan's dearest dream was construction of a wall around the mission, he said, and work is going forward slowly on that project. Soon visitors may see a tiny sample of how the wall will look when finished, he said.

Father Hutchinson told of his worry at being appointed to his important position, after he had spent 13 years at Canoga Park, where he had built the church which still stands there. "We can make this spot the grandest thing in America," he said, "by keeping its beauty, its simplicity and its peacefulness." He concluded his talk with an invitation to all present to visit the mission in an after-dark tour of the grounds and buildings.

K. P. Frederick, Long Beach, told of his interest in the mission and the community, and of its foundation for service to humanity. He said that the mission was founded with the one idea of service and lauded Father Hutchinson for carrying on work started many years ago.

Ray Felton, editor of The Journal, gave his impressions when first coming to the mission and of the spirit of friendship and trust apparent throughout the community. He urged residents to carry on traditions and to retain simplicity of their pueblo, and concluded by pointing out that the entire county is proud of San Juan Capistrano and its history.

Major Is Speaker

A. T. Smith, mayor of San Clemente, lauded work of residents in promoting a spirit of friendship and of workers at the mission for their efforts in development of the traditional spot. Dr. C. G. Huston, Costa Mesa, urged continuation of friendly reception of visitors in San Juan, and Hay Ayres, San Clemente, spoke briefly.

Tony Nydegger, president of the San Juan Capistrano chapter of the Riviera of America association, was master of ceremonies. During the dinner an orchestra composed of Ramon Yorra, Jose Doran and David Yorra played Spanish and Mexican music.

Following the meeting, Mr. Nydegger thanked members of the Club Hispano-Californio for their participation in the dances and banquet and for furnishing music.

Members of the Capistrano Woman's club were in charge of decorations, and flood-lighting for the street dance was in charge of Harvey Larkin.

Coincidence Night Ball Changes

We ran smash into a swell coincidence the other day—all unwittingly, too.

Carrier-pigeon for our coincidence was W. R. Abrahamson, 1711 North Baker street, Santa Ana. Mr. Abrahamson came into the office the other afternoon and asked us "how come" we knew of an item appearing in his pillar last Friday.

The item was about Sam Goss, 1914 hero of the Iowa football team. It recounted how Sam had started a "beef" about a penalty, was refused by officials, picked up the pigskin and walked and then ran through the opposition to a touchdown while all the boys stood around in open-mouthed amazement. Sam got away with it, too.

Mr. Abrahamson came in to tell us that many years ago he and Sam had played together on the same Burlington, Ia., high school eleven. They parted after high school, Mr. Abrahamson going to Cornell and Sam on to Iowa. But W. R. knew about the incident we chronicled and wanted to prove we were leaning in the proper direction when we preceded the observation with:

"Here's one some of you old-timers might remember. . . . To Old-Timer Abrahamson, thanks for a choice item."

Here's one in favor of Santa Anita.

If you have been among the hapless who have won on nags there and then lost your parimutuel ticket, rest in peace, for the money you didn't collect goes not to the management's pocket, but to a mighty good cause.

Here's what officials do with bets that are not collected: Cash is saved, and for each dollar of the total Santa Anita adds one more dollar. The grand total is then turned over to a publishers' committee who will see to it that it is given to deserving charities.

In announcing this philanthropic salvaging of the wages of gambling, Dr. Charles Strub, president of the Los Angeles Turf club, said the sum would be "around $50,000."

The National Nightball league may not be the only league in the Southland puddle to play under new rules next summer.

Reports drifting down the Santa Ana river bed from Riverside—a la Willie Fogleman, typewriter tapper for an inland newspaper—are that at least two pertinent changes are being considered by the American leaguers.

President George M. Pace of the American leaguers lets out the dope about in this order. The now-dreaded-of changes:

1. Lengthen the base lines from 45 to 60 feet and reduce the size of the ball from 13 1/2 inches to 13 inches.
2. Discard the old schedule of Tuesday and Friday night games and substitute three-game series weekly, with the same two teams battling each other Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
3. If proposal No. 2 is not agreeable to all, offer in its stead one which would give league clubs games Monday and Friday, thus leaving them Wednesdays for exhibitions in which to try out independent talent and to season rookie players.

In all likelihood, the moves are contemplated to offset recent announcements that the Nationals will open next season with 60-foot baselines and the smaller apple. The inlanders don't want to be handicapped in the Southern California playoff so they will get in line.

The managers will meet next month, so look for action along this line about that time.

GAMES SKATERS FACE FINALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Eight of the finest figure skaters in the United States, survivors of a double preliminary test, will glide and whirl tonight in the final competition for national figure skating championships and places on the Olympic winter sports team.

Three pairs, most of them the same skaters who will compete in the men's and women's singles, also will be in action.

SPEED OF HORSES

A race horse will step between 50 and 60 feet per second, depending upon his class, the distance of the contest, and the condition of the track. Inasmuch as the average horse is more than eight feet in length while running with neck stretched out, it means that if he is traveling at the rate of 54 feet per second, he negotiates what is equivalent to nearly seven times his own length in one second.

Riskulus Weighted 115 Pounds For Feature At Santa Anita

SANTA ANITA, Dec. 30. (AP)—Azucar, Fred M. Alger's winner of the first Santa Anita handicap, carries top weight of 122 pounds for the $5000 added New Year's day stakes.

Seventeen eligibles are listed. Northway stable's Riskulus drew the second heaviest impost, 115, followed by Harry C. Hatch's Ariel cross, 12, and Greentree stable's Soon Over.

Certain To Go

Judging from his present training and condition, Azucar is certain to go, observers say. It will mark his first appearance at the Arcadia plant since Georgie Woolf rode him to victory in the Santa Anita. The prized horse also copied the New Year's day stakes last Jan. 1, with a weight of 117 pounds.

The Araho stable's Howard, making his debut at Santa Anita, was weighted sixth by Racing Secretary Webb Everett at 111 pounds. Mrs. Louise H. Nimkoff's Beefsteak will carry two pounds less.

Expect Limit Field

Of the 17 eligibles a limit field is anticipated, with the newcomers, Brookmeade's Black Gift and Special Agent, Pelletier and Peck's West Main and the Araho Stable's Howard almost certain contenders, it is reported.

MILLS TO PLAY AT SAN PEDRO

Tuning up for their gruelling assignment with Vic Baden's Concordians at Orange Friday, Santa Ana's Woolen Mills cagers of the Southern California Y. M. C. A. league journey to San Pedro tonight for a practice basketball game with Medak's Service five at 8 o'clock.

Orange's league-leaders enjoy 20-16 and 37-21 decisions over Alhambra and Ontario while Santa Ana possesses a 79-22 victory over South Pasadena but a 25-25 defeat from Alhambra. Santa Ana may fade completely out of the titular picture unless the Woolen Mills quintet topples Orange.

Quentin Matzen's starting lineup for the brush at San Pedro will have Fred Wiemer and Ed Stephen at forward, Hal Spangler at center, Joe McChesney and Russell Sullivan at guard, with Clarence and Roy Peterson in reserve.

Grayson Says He'll Play Despite Illness

Cold In Chest Not To Keep Fullback Out Of Bowl Contest

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
PASADENA, Dec. 30. (AP)—Bobby Grayson, the dynamo, who generates Stanford's amazing offensive power, put to rest today the fears that he might not be able to play against Southern Methodist in the New Year's day grid classic here.

"It is only a slight sore throat," said the fullback who has piled up 228 yards in the last two Rose Bowl encounters.

"The doctors thought I should rest yesterday, but I'm all right."

"You bet I'll play Wednesday. It would take more than a sore throat to keep me out of that game."

And to prove his point he immediately set about to get ready for the afternoon practice session.

He's Valuable

Just to show how valuable Grayson is to the West's representatives, he picked up more yards—169—in the 1934 Rose Bowl game than did all of the Columbia backs. The fates, however, ruled against his scoring, as the Lions won on a smartly timed, well-executed reverse, 7 to 0.

He was overshadowed by the great Dixie Howell of Alabama last year, but still managed to roll up 68 yards and score a touchdown as the Stanford eleven went down to defeat, 29 to 13.

As it now stands, his Rose Bowl record shows besides the fact he has carried the ball 45 times for a 4.1 average.

S. M. U. COACH PICKS BOYS TO WIN

Mustangs By 10-7, Says Bell; Visitors Again Rated Best Bet

Coach "Tiny" Thornhill ignored the drizzle and sent his Indians through a Sabbath workout, but Matty Bell, Methodist mentor, sent his boys to church and allowed them to exercise at table tennis.

Both coaches planned outdoor drills today, the Methodists behind locked gates at Occidental college.

Bell finally tossed off his pessimistic attitude, and, coincidentally, took Sunday's prevailing odds as the score his Mustangs would take Stanford.

"My guess is as good as any," he said. "I like my club, 10-7. That will take a field goal by Maurice Orr."

Orr, his 210-pound kicking tackle, has accounted for 37 points by field goals and conversion points in the 12 games the Mustangs have won.

Bell declined to be absolutely cheerful, however, shifting back to one of his favorite subjects, the potency of Bobby Grayson, Stanford's all-American fullback.

"He's all-America if ever there was one," Bell said in comment on the line bomber, who has accounted for 597 yards of his team's gain from scrimmage and will play, despite a troublesome cold.

The Methodists saw Grayson and company tangle with the University of Southern California seven weeks ago when they came west to play and smother U. C. L. A. Rose bowl "fish" with a brace to reveal it was the first time an invading Rose bowl team has ever seen its opposition play in the same season.

Plans Shuffle

Bell planned a frequent shuffling of five bulky guards to offset the double wingback line thrusts Stanford has driven into every opposing line thus far.

Wetzel and Stamps, regulars and a pair of the southwest's best, will share duty with Scottino, Baker and Stufflebume, giant second stringers. Bell worried little about his two all-Southwest conference tackles, Spain and Orr—except to pray for 60 minutes of "good health" for them Wednesday afternoon.

"Monk" Moscrip, Stanford's injured all-America end, scampers through workouts with a brace on his knee and insisted "I'm feeling fine." Doubt remained, however, that he would play the full 60 minutes. He limbered his noted kicking foot, the producer of three victories by field goals this year, and Thornhill said he probably would start the game.

PASADENA, Dec. 30. (AP)—Uncertain week-end weather conditions caused odds to quiver but clear weather today pushed Southern Methodist's aerial troupe back to the favorite spot in the New Year's day Rose bowl classic with Stanford's Indians.

Quoted generally as 10-7 favorites before drizzling rain started early yesterday, the Methodists lost prestige and slipped closer to even money as critics feared slippery conditions for their air bombing.

ROWDYISM ATTACKED

BOSTON, (AP)—Soccer players, club officers and spectators have been warned by the United States Soccer Referees association that assaults on referees will be dealt with summarily. William R. Welch, secretary, says the association will prosecute at its expense any cases where a referee is "assaulted in any way." He has called attention to four cases of such assault in the past month.

COOPER TOPS OPEN FIELD WITH 66

121 Pasadena Survivors After McSpader's Title Today

PASADENA, Dec. 30. (AP)—A field of 121 low score golfers were ready to start out today in the second round of the Pasadena $4000 open tournament, weather permitting.

Heavy rains made the Brookside course unplayable yesterday, and contestants, with Horton Smith acting as spokesman for the professionals, agreed to postpone the round. The 36-hole finals are slated to be played tomorrow.

Sixty Survivors

Sixty low score survivors, regardless of their pro or amateur standing, will take the field for the championship round.

Leading the pack as the second round came up was "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, Chicago pro, who posted a dazzling 66, five strokes better than par, in his initial tour. The score tied the Pasadena tournament record set by Craig Wood in 1931.

Two strokes back were Jimmy Hines, Garden City, L. I. pro, and Al Krueger, Beloit, Wis., golfer-pro baseball pitcher, and Wiffy Cox, Bethesda, Md.

Eight visiting pros held 69's—Henry Picard, ranking star from Hershey, Pa.; Harold "Jug" defending champion of the meet, formerly of Kansas City; Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Orville White, St. Louis; Mortie Dutra, Detroit; Eric Seavall, Glendale; Fred Morrison, Pasadena; and George Schneider, Ogden, Utah.

70 for Smith

Horton Smith, Chicago money-winner; Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh; and two California players, Les Madison, Hollywood, and Henry Batista, Pasadena amateur, scored 70's. The par 71 group was crowded.

Qualifying scores had to be 77 or better for professionals, and 78 for amateurs.

MOTOR TAXES IN EFFECT THURSDAY

Deadline Is Midnight
Jan. 30; Regulations
Are Outlined

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Registration of more than 2,000,000 motor vehicles under California's revised tax laws will begin next Thursday.

Two fees will be due—the registration fee of $3 and the vehicle license tax.

The registration fee is for the numbered license plates and the license tax will be paid in lieu of personal property taxes formerly paid on motor vehicles to county and city assessors.

Rate $1.75 Per $100
The license tax is assessed at the rate of $1.75 for each $100 valuation of the vehicle, the values having been determined by the department of motor vehicles.

Postal assessment cards were mailed early in December.

Ray Ingels, state director of motor vehicles, said that if the postal assessment card had been lost, the owner will be able to find out the amount by consulting the department's headquarters in Sacramento or its branches in the different cities, offices of the California highway patrol and offices of the authorized automobile clubs.

Procedure Told
In reregistering a machine, the owner must present the white (resident) or blue (non-resident) registration card bearing the assessor's stamp to show city and county taxes of 1935 have been paid.

He also must present the postal assessment card, showing the fees to be paid and cash, money order or certified check to cover the amount of fees as shown on the postal card.

Registration can be obtained by mail if the owner sends the required papers and fees to the department in Sacramento.

The registration must be completed by midnight, Jan. 30, or a penalty of 100 per cent of the vehicle license tax will be added, and the vehicle can be confiscated and sold for fees due the state.

How Counties
In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, the Department of Public Works has prepared a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

SIERRA COUNTY
Created April 16, 1852, "Sierra" is the Spanish word for "saw," and was applied to the chain of mountains, Sierra Nevada, meaning "snow saw," because of the jagged, serrated or saw-tooth peaks which from the skyline of this range of mountains, and the county that bears the name "Sierra" was so-called because of the jagged peaks within its borders.

In bygone ages rivers flowed across Sierra county from north to south or from northeast to southwest, depositing beds of auriferous sand-bearing gravel. A titanic convulsion of the earth threw up masses of boiling mud and melted rock, changing the valleys into lofty mountains and forming new courses for the rivers. And then, in 1849, pioneers began mining and to date Sierra has yielded of gold to the tune of $250,000,000 in gold within a 20-mile radius of the county seat of Downville.

Reno, Nev., lies a few miles directly east of the county, Lake Tahoe 15 miles southeast, while the state capital, Sacramento, is 95 miles southwest, reached over a splendid highway. Sierra is one of the best known mountain counties, presenting rugged mountain views, snow-capped peaks, several beautiful lakes, areas of the Plumas and Yuba national forests, and one of the largest and most productive of all mountain valleys. Sierra valley measures 30 miles in length by 10 miles in width. The elevation is 5,000 feet with a delightful summer climate. It is a very productive garden spot with 15,000 acres under cultivation. Crops include wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa, potatoes, clover, hay, apples, peaches, pears, prunes, plums and walnuts.

Sierra trails, historic mining towns, and hunting and fishing attract thousands of tourists. Motorists on Yuba Pass highway arrive unexpectedly in the quaint county seat of Downville. The location is on a large flat at the junction of the north and south forks of the Yuba river, practically enclosed on all sides by the forest-clad walls of Yuba canyon. Buildings erected in the fifties with overhanging balconies and a few modern structures line the crooked streets. Loyalist in northeastern Sierra is an agricultural, dairying and lumbering community. Allegheys is a picturesque old mining town. Population: 2,422. Area: 923 square miles.

STATE FACING $70,000,000 DEFICIT BEFORE 1937

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Consolidation of governmental functions or increased taxation probably will be the choices Governor Merriam will offer to the February taxpayers' conference on California finances.

A study of new sources of taxation is underway by Arlin Stockburger, director of finance, who will present the financial picture of the state.

Picture that is a prospective deficit somewhere between $70,000,000 and $76,000,000 by the end of the 1935-37 biennium, despite the addition of $90,000,000 in new taxes to the state's revenue structure by the 1935 legislature.

Sources for Tapping
Sources which might be tapped to wipe out the deficit include an increase of taxes on wine, beer, gasoline and trucks, and new taxes on real estate transfers, all business transactions, property, theater admissions, gas, light and telephone bills, and cigarettes. Stockburger will show what various rates might produce.

If sentiment is against new taxes, and no one in the capital expects it to be otherwise, the governor probably will cite the possibilities for economy in consolidating government.

That would mean more than consolidation of state departments. Such a step would save little compared to what must be eliminated.

Consolidation Proposals
Briefly, that picture is a prospective deficit somewhere between $70,000,000 and $76,000,000 by the end of the 1935-37 biennium, despite the addition of $90,000,000 in new taxes to the state's revenue structure by the 1935 legislature.

Under the present system, Mr. Bacon said, if a public utility has a large and valuable plant in one county, all its taxes are paid to that county, even though there may be relatively very few consumers of the company in that county. Consumers of the company in other counties get no benefit from these taxes, he said.

Question of Fairness
The protests filed by the Edison company and other utilities have raised the question whether it would not be more fair for these taxes to be apportioned to all counties in which the companies operate, in proportion to the amount of power or other service they consume, said Mr. Bacon.

"The protests were filed primarily to give an opportunity for these questions to be settled," said Mr. Bacon. "If the taxes had been paid without protest, the matters at issue could not have been determined. Filing of the protest makes it possible for any interested taxpayer to start suit within six months and have the court determine the fairness of the present system of taxing the utilities."

Filed in Other Counties
Mr. Bacon said similar protests have been filed by the Southern California Edison Company in all the 10 counties in which it operates.

The present system of taxation of utilities by counties went into effect this year. Utilities formerly were taxed only by the state. The plan has been put into operation largely by the state board of equalization. Protests filed by the utilities, including the Southern California Telephone Company, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company, Pacific Electric Railway company, Industrial Fuel Supply Company and others, also allege that the state board of equalization increased assessed valuation of utility property without giving the taxpayers notice and a chance to object, and that utility property in many instances was assessed at a higher rate and on a different basis from that used on other similar property.

Will the tax payment protests filed by public utilities result in a new distribution of their tax monies in all the counties where they operate? This question was in the limelight today as Rodney Bacon, district manager for the Southern California Edison Company here, explained the theory behind the protest under which this concern paid $109,541.30 in Orange county taxes this year.

TRIO SLAYS POLITICIAN

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Lieut. Richard Barry said today that State Representative Albert J. Prignano, political boss of a district known for years as the "bloody twentieth ward," was assassinated.

Shot four times in the back and twice in the head, Prignano fell dead on the doorstep of his home. "It's a stickup," one of the three killers told Prignano as the representative, his wife and son, John, 8, walked toward the door of their home last night.

"Give them everything you got," Mrs. Prignano called to her husband. The representative emptied his pockets and walked away. As he turned the gunmen opened fire.

Victor Galanti, his chauffeur, who witnessed the shooting, said one of the killers calmly stood over the body, and fired two more shots into Prignano's head. The assassins, Galanti said, fled on foot after they were unable to start their automobile, which had been stolen.

FRUIT DEALER FOUND SLAIN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—A man tentatively identified as Leo Panzarella, 25, was found shot to death in a truck today near the southern boundary of the "bloody twentieth" ward, where State Representative Albert J. Prignano was slain last night.

The body of Panzarella with a bullet in the abdomen, was found by his brother, Angelo. The Panzarella brothers were in the fruit business. Police began an investigation to determine whether there was any connection between the two killings.

SHIP SUBSIDY FIGHT NEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The question of subsidies for the American merchant marine appeared today to be headed for renewed discussion in the next session.

Postmaster General Farley put his influence behind a move to scrap the present method of helping shipping through mail contracts, and to substitute outright subsidies.

His advice was contained in his annual report for the fiscal year ended last June 30, which claimed a "net surplus" for the postoffice department for the second successive year and hit back at critics who say such surpluses are "mere bookkeeping."

Coincident with Farley's subsidy stand, Senator Copeland (D-N.Y.) said he would introduce legislation which "provides for the termination of the present ocean mail contracts, abolishes the construction loan fund and provides for direct subsidies."

Farley, in his annual report today, said that last year the government expended $29,536,733 for ocean-mail carrying which on a poundage basis would have cost only $3,266,780. He said a direct subsidy, covering the difference between American and foreign construction and operating costs "would seem the best solution."

THEFT SUSPECT LOSES CHASE

Jacob B. Wolford, 36, Montebello, had what officers termed a series of tough breaks early Saturday. The whole thing started at 12:45 a. m. when he assertedly stole a leather jacket and a box of dance tickets from a car parked in front of Bob's cafe, Placentia avenue and 101 highway.

The two occupants of the car, Richard Leininger and Hilton Cannon, both of Orange, were coming out of the cafe when they saw Wolford speed away in his car. They thought he had acted suspiciously and when they looked in their car they noticed the jacket and tickets were gone. The pair gave chase. Wolford, who was driving a 1934 Buick, dodged in and out of alleys in an attempt to elude his pursuers. Wolford turned up at the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, and after proceeding for approximately 120 feet from the Olive and Vermont street intersection, his car crashed into a trolley pole. The pole was broken off near the ground and the car was badly damaged. Wolford got out of the machine and escaped through an orange orchard.

At 8:30 a. m. Saturday, Wolford reported to the Santa Ana police department the theft of his car. In the meantime, deputies were investigating the case, and had traced the machine to him. They learned that at one time he had lived in Santa Ana but had been evicted from the city because of his bad behavior. Following his arrest at his home in Montebello, on a warrant issued in the Anaheim justice court, the two Orange boys identified him as the man who had been driving the car they had chased.

STATE LIQUOR FEES LAQUE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30. (AP)—California's revenue from liquor fees and taxes will total $8,700,000 this year, estimates George M. Stout, administrator for the state board of equalization. Of this amount, Los Angeles county is supplying $3,347,000, he said. There are 65,557 liquor licenses issued throughout the state. Filled within the next year, said Juvenile Judge Samuel R. Blake. He grants about 500 adoption decrees annually.

BYRNS URGES GREATER NATIONAL DEFENSE, LARGER AIR FORCE

SUPPORT FOR MORE POWER SET FORTH

Other House Members Pressing For Added Armed Strength

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The issue of greater national defense with the air force as a spearhead, was thrust into the forefront of the congressional program today by Speaker Byrns.

With a declaration that preparedness for war is "good insurance against it," Byrns—not long since returned from a trip across the Pacific—bespoke support for air power, an Alaskan base, and Hawaiian fortifications "strengthened as much as necessary."

Opposition Foreseen
Opposition from some Mid-west congressmen and farm organizations opposed to larger military expenses was foreseen by the speaker when a big defense budget reaches the house.

Besides Byrns, some other members of the house are pressing for national defense action. Secretary Dorn recently recommended the purchase of 800 planes annually for five years.

A decision to fight for an air force "second to none" came during a conference a fortnight ago between General Malin Craig, chief of staff, and Chairman McSwain, Democrat, South Carolina, of the House military committee.

Money Not All Voted
No major legislation is needed from the military or naval committees, Byrns said, because the necessary authorizations exist for building up the defense forces. All the money has not been voted, however.

Rumblings of the opposition already have been heard. Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota, in a recent radio address demanded an end to billion-dollar defense appropriations as pointing the nation toward bankruptcy.

The same day a contract was let for 100 fast army aircraft costing $2,065,074.

'SCIENCE' TOPIC AT CHURCH SUNDAY

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The Golden Text was from Isaiah, "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee."

The Lesson-Sermon included these Bible selections from John: "Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and ye have not known me, Philip? . . . Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not myself; but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works."

Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were these words: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christians are under as direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christlike, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ-example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning."

Hermann Neuberg, a director of the German tobacco cartel, announced after his trip to Brazil that beginning in 1936 "50 per cent of Germany's consumption of tobacco will be for Brazil's leaf product."

LIFE IN 1935

10. Science Speeds Travel, Lessens Pain

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

Science in 1935 promised John Smith less pain, better health, longer life, more thrills in speed, more personal comforts. It started things that surely will make John Smith a little more of a king as days pass—and, whether he likes it or not, much more of a neighbor to all the world.

John Smith lost some of his "space-time." That's a word coined in higher science to tell the strange things that happen where speeds are immense and space boundless. But when the clippers flew the Pacific in five days on regular commercial schedule, space-time in nearly the scientific sense became reality for John Smith. Much of his isolation from the Orient dropped.

Atlantic Clippers Promised
Likewise earlier in the year Europe came nearer with the Normandie's new Atlantic record of four days, three hours, 13 minutes and 35 seconds.

Atlantic clippers also were promised.

"One hundred octane fuel" was developed by the U. S. Army aviation service. This fuel was a dream in 1934. But in 1935 ended with several big companies about to make it.

"One hundred octane"—gasoline of high anti-knock value—increased the speed of the P-26A Army pursuit planes 35 miles an hour.

Speedier Trains
Streamlined trains spanned the continent under 40 hours, promising competition to air and auto. Sir Malcolm Campbell drove his "Bluebird" across the salt flats of Utah for a new world's speed record of more than 301 miles an hour.

For driving comfort, John Smith saw the world's first air-conditioned automobile; heard of the first winter's test at the University of Minnesota of cast iron highway pavement, less slippery in sleet or rain, "diamond studded," to be night-visible under all conditions.

Silk from Pine Trees
He saw pictures of the first artificial silken threads made from southern pine trees, a source big enough to clothe the world in pure sheen. Science picked for him 40 kinds of trees and shrubs that will grow well in now treeless areas.

While John Smith kept out of war his country produced at the Du Pont works the first foolproof explosive, useful for farming and road building, apparently not adaptable for fighting. Princeton and General Electric scientists made half-man-size vacuum tubes to transmit electric power farther.

Medicine offered him improved operations for relief of pain, for high blood pressure, angina pectoris, a kidney extract that promises to help incurable Bright's disease, twilight sleep for men to restore minds shaken by worry.

Two vaccines for infantile paralysis appeared. One declared possibly dangerous but probably also protective. A scarless smallpox vaccine was offered to public health officials after three years' experiment at the Rockefeller Institute.

Charles A. Lindbergh's mechanical heart and lung apparatus opened new possibilities of studying the progress of disease. Dr. L. Ruzicka of Zurich made a new heat hormone synthetically, with the promise of arresting senile decay.

Atomic Energy
Several laboratories carried forward the diet experiments under which for three years past numerous forecasts have been made of increasing the human life span by 10 years.

Vitamin E, the reproduction chemical, was isolated and made for the first time. The University of Illinois made artificially the 22nd amino acid, a food factor essential for life.

Wirephoto Starts
Wirephoto, in The Associated Press, started a new era in transmission of news pictures. The stratosphere flights reached a new record of 13.7 miles.

And finally, something John Smith didn't hear of—in atomic energy at Columbia University, a method of getting out two hundred million times the power the scientists put in. When that principle can be applied to commercial power John Smith's whole world will change.

ARRESTS AND JAIL BOOKING SHOW INCREASE OVER 1934

Figures compiled from records on file at the Santa Ana police department, the California Highway Patrol, and the Orange county jail show an increase in the number of arrests made and prisoners handled, and also an increase in traffic accidents over the totals for last year.

To date, the Santa Ana police department leads the field in the number of arrests made since Jan. 1, 1935, with a total of 4567. Last year Santa Ana police made 3205 arrests. Chief of Police Floyd Howard in commenting upon the total, said a large percentage of the arrests were for over time parking. Many of those arrested were never booked at the county jail.

The California Highway Patrol has attempted to take whatever steps necessary to insure the safety of Orange county motorists. Consequently, patrolmen have found it necessary to make many arrests. In 1934 there were 2806 arrests made by highway patrolmen. By Dec. 14, the number of arrests made this year totaled 2485.

The highway patrol has investigated during the past 12 months a total of 373 traffic accidents which resulted in 44 deaths. Last year there were 351 accidents reported to the highway patrol, and the fatalities totaled 36. Records on file at patrol headquarters show there was an increase in the total number of accidents last year over 1933 of 49.3 per cent, and an increase in the number of deaths of 18.9 per cent. This year's figures indicate an even greater percentage of increase over the totals for last year.

Orange county jail bookings to date surpass the total for 1934 by 550. There have been 3361 prisoners booked at the jail this year to date as compared with a total of 2841 for all of last year. The increase in the number of prisoners is largely explained by the fact that Orange county police departments have arrested more persons for drunkenness this year than at any time in the past.

ASK HELP OF NORRIS FOR ROOSEVELT

Independent Mid-West Campaign Proposed Under Senator

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Drafting of Senator Norris (R., Neb.) to head an independent Roosevelt-for-President campaign committee in six Mid-western states, was proposed today by a Nebraska Progressive.

The author of the idea, George W. Kline, chairman of the Nebraska Progressive league, said he believed the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt could not be left to the regular Democratic organization.

The regular organization, he said, "in some places is not completely in sympathy with the President." Kline's proposed Norris committee would function in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

Five Developments
This was one of several developments with a possible bearing on the 1936 campaign. Others included:

1. New York Republican "Progressives" drove ahead with their plans to win the state's delegation to the Republican national convention for Senator Borah of Idaho.
2. Representative Pierce (D., Ore.) announced he would try to have straw ballots barred from the mails. He expressed the belief that "Republicans are manipulating a current national poll which shows a trend away from President Roosevelt."
3. J. Kenneth Bradley, director of the Young Republican division of the Republican national committee, said a recent questionnaire indicated younger members of the party considered the farm problem and the cost of government to be two leading issues.

PLAQUE AWARDED LOCAL DRILL TEAM

Presentation of a plaque won at San Diego Exposition last summer as grand prize in a competition among drill teams, marked the meeting of the Homesteaders' association Friday night in the M. W. A. hall.

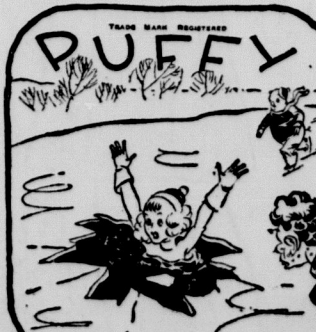

Mrs. Julia C. Ginn, president of the state fraternal congress, had come from Los Angeles to present the award. Don Milwine, president of Los Angeles Victory Homestead, his vice-president, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Briggs, Ventura, who formerly resided in Santa Ana, and others were visitors.

The drill team presented the same exhibition which won the high honors at San Diego for them.

Mrs. Lydia Fipps, known as the mother of the drill team, had taken pictures of the team and presented each couple attending with one of the photographs. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Laura Sanborn, and Mrs. Jennie Cully.

RUDYARD KIPLING IS 70 TODAY

BURWASH, Sussex, England, Dec. 30. (AP)—A fiery little figure, jut-jawed and beetle-browed, Rudyard Kipling celebrated his seventieth birthday today in this old village on the Downs. The greying "Sage of Burwash" passed the day quietly with his American-born wife and daughter and a few old friends.

1935 Was a 'Divorce Year' in Orange County; 100 More Knots Untied Than in 1934

The past year has seen an increase of about one-third in the number of interlocutory divorce decrees granted by the Orange county superior courts. The total leaped from 204 in 1934 to 304 in 1935.

The number of interlocutory decrees which became final also showed an increase, although the percentage was not so great. During the past year 201 divorces became final, as compared with 181 in 1934. An interlocutory decree does not become final until a year has elapsed. During that 12-month period neither party may remarry.

In addition to the divorces granted during 1935, there also were 17 annulments.

If superstition has anything to do with the success or failure of a marriage, couples whose last name begins with I or X have the best chance of avoiding the divorce courts. During the past year no divorces were granted to persons whose names begin with these letters. Y, Z, Q and O also were favored letters, there being but one decree granted in 1935 for each of these initial name letters.

On the other hand, H is an unlucky letter, judging from divorce records. Thirty-nine couples whose last names begin with H were divorced this year. Other high score initial letters were B with 27 divorces, M with 24, C with 23, S with 22, and R with 21.

HOOVER LOSES HIS RABBIT Didn't Like Social Security

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30. (AP)—Herbert Hoover Saturday night recalled his boyhood days in an address limited as to length "because if I speak longer I might refer to some things going on in the country today and that might darken a happy holiday."

The former President, a native of the Hawkeye state, spoke before the Iowa Association of Southern California. He referred to Iowa as "the richest stretch of agricultural land that ever blessed any one sovereign government."

His Bitterest Day
Hoover recalled a boyhood episode in rabbit trapping as "one of the bitterest days of my life."

He said the lore of the boys, then was to catch rabbits in a figure four trap and take them home alive. "My brother, being older," he said, "had surreptitiously, behind the blacksmith shop, read in the Youth's Companion full directions for rendering live rabbits secure. 'I say 'surreptitiously' for mine was a Quaker family, unwilling in those days to have youth corrupted with stronger reading than the Bible, the encyclopedia, or those great novels where the hero overcomes the demon rum."

Painful Recollection
"Soon after he acquired this higher learning on rabbits, he proceeded to instruct me to stand still in the cold snow and to hold up the rabbit by its hind feet while with his not over-sharp knife he proposed to puncture two holes between the sinews and the back knee joints of the rabbit."

"Through these holes he proposed to tie a string and thus introduce the rabbit to complete economic and social security. At first very beginning of this surgical operation the rabbit developed great resistance. He was too much for me. I was not only blamed for its escape all the way home and for weeks afterwards, but continuously over the last 40 years."

"I never see rabbit tracks across the snowy fields that I do not have a painful recollection of it all."

FEWER DRUNK DRIVERS IN COURT HERE

New State Laws Make Misdemeanors Out Of Lesser Cases

Less than one-half as many drunk driving cases passed through the Orange county superior court this year as were handled in 1934.

Last year a total of 114 such cases came before the superior court. So far this year the total is 39.

Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis explained today that the decrease is due largely to an act of the last legislature which made drunk driving a misdemeanor wherever an injury to human life or damage to property results from the drunk driver's perambulations.

In such cases the law now makes it mandatory for the defendant to be charged with a misdemeanor drunk driving offense, he said. For this reason a large number of drunk driving cases which last year would have been handled in superior court have been handled this year in the justice courts and city courts throughout the county.

Thirty-three of the defendants reaching superior court in drunk driving cases pleaded guilty this year. Four were acquitted and two were convicted after trials. Probation was granted in 24 cases and denied in four cases. In the remainder of the cases, probation was not asked and jail sentences were imposed. In cases where probation was granted, jail sentences or fines also were imposed as conditions of leniency.

How Can Mothers Keep Children From Drunken Brawls on New Year's Eve?

By MARY STODDARD
New Year's Eve brings many a shudder for scores of mothers who want their children to have a good time but dread the intoxicated whirl in which they may be involved. They hate to see their youngsters face the New Year with a headache. They fear the consequences of the drunken brawls which set the pace for the holiday eve. Following is a letter from one mother:

Lagunalog

Chatter of Doings at Laguna Beach

By MAXINE STOREY

With tinsel and turkeys temporarily placed in the whirling holiday background Laguna gadabouts are turning their attention on the New Year's Eve Artists' ball and the Laguna Rose Parade float.

The Artists' ball which is to be a Frolic of the Comics, will feature entertainment which includes a floor show, mock press turning out comies, dancing until long after the stroke of 12, and an elaborate midnight supper.

Lagunatics are busily gathering costumes and will dance as every character from Little Orphan Annie to Popeye. Interest in the Laguna float to be entered in the annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's day is rivaling the New Year's Eve ball.

Joe Jahurs, owner of the Laguna Lumber company, loaned a huge truck to workers and though no word has been given as to the theme of the truck, superintendent, Harold Reed, promises that Laguna's contribution will again be a prize-winner.

Out of the whirl of the past week's holiday festivities noticed Mrs. Betty Pierce and Mrs. Charles Artz in the Las Ocas Christmas dinner; present were Barbara and Ralph Frost, Jr., Betty Arden, Dorothy and Ted Pierce, and tots, Barbara Arden and Jeffrey Pierce. Judge Gavy Graywath sipping coffee and munching donuts in a local cafe.

Connie Barnett visiting the N. E. West in Laguna after a six month's trip abroad and first semester at Stanford. Sallie Barnett strolling the boulevard in green tulle and hiking.

The Maurice MacMillans sipping a before-dinner cocktail in the Tavern Christmas day. Dick Chapman down from Pasadena to sip at Mrs. Mary Buckley's Thursday cocktail party.

Sunny Turner entertaining with a dinner and bringing news that sister and speedboat racer, Loretta, is living in Montreal, Canada. The Dale McKlins Christmas in Long Beach and Pasadena.

Sherm Padlock spending Christmas in Pasadena with news of small winning at Anita. The Clarke Ingrahams also attending the Christmas day races at the Anita track. Duke Wagoner and Doris Thurston partying Christmas eve; both glad to return to Laguna after several months' absence in the East.

Doris brought news of a new addition to the family; born in November to sister, Virginia Santmeyer, a baby boy in New Orleans. Sam'l Pierce spending a disgruntled Christmas eve with friends in Laguna and tearing back to his KJH continuity job early Christmas morning.

Fred Violette back to spend Christmas with his family and bringing, Dad with him from Michigan and New York. Dorothy Pierce returning for Christmas from Santa Fe, N. M.

Dave Monahan sporting a Saks Fifth Avenue grey suit Christmas night. Dean Benton entertaining at the Christmas Night Open House Community club party with pantomimes and songs.

Marge Gowan and Fredie Tipping enjoying huge all-day suckers at the same party. Bill Fassett and wife whisking off to San Francisco for Christmas.

The crystal gazer beholds 1936. Ted Cook picking up cronies in

Dear Miss Stoddard:

Christmas is always such a happy time at our house. My two sons and my daughter are fine children, with a deep sense of honor. Good, clean, fun-loving young people. We never have liquor of any kind at our house although I don't criticize those who do like it and take it moderately. We just never have felt the need of it.

New Year's Eve the children always go to private parties somewhere. Last year the boys each had a couple of drinks, I know, just to be good sports, they said, but they wouldn't let their sisters have any. But from their reports, the rest of the crowd was very drunk. Most of them I know, and they're very nice boys and girls. Their parents hate to protest, I suppose, and keep them from celebrating in a "big way," once a year.

I'm afraid my children will be tempted to drink too much, also. There's always the danger from driving home in a drunken condition, too. Really, Miss Stoddard, I don't know what to do. How can a mother protect her children?

Puzzled Mother

I can suggest one dance where your children will go, where there'll be no drinking. DeMolays and Jobs Daughters are having a dance in the Palms ballroom from 9 until 11. It will be properly chaperoned and no drinking will be allowed.

You might also have a party at your own house. I'm sure you and your children have enough originality to plan an evening that will be fun without having to serve liquor. A clever hostess can provide games and entertainment that will let even the most serious person have a good time—and quite without the influence of liquor. If you suggest something very attractive to the youngsters, they won't be interested in the brawls. I'm sure you as a mother won't take the easiest way out and tell them "to be good children."

The Santa Ana society will serve refreshments. The watch service is to conclude the evening.

Miss Wilma Hoy assisted her sister in serving a dessert course at the card tables, which were centered with green candles in English holly wreaths. Holiday decorations were in evidence.

Other guests included Mrs. Tremble and her daughter, Mrs. Don Hildreth, Mesdames Dean Smiley, Gene Wood, Minor Warne, Bill Hill, Donald Dunbar, Lester Boyle and Gene Robb.

The Thinkers
Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you approve of the idea of a "marriage doctor" to deal intelligently and sympathetically with problems of marriage life, helping couples avoid the divorce courts?

Mrs. Jessie Collins: I do. I think it's a good idea, and I don't see why it wouldn't be practical.

Mrs. Ernest G. Gould: It's something new at least. The idea sounds interesting. It's been worked out in newspaper columns, and I should think the plan might be successful.

Girls' Frock Owes Its Charm to Simplicity—Says Marian Martin

PATTERN 9532
This winsome young fashion leader is wearing a frock that owes its charm to utter simplicity, which means it's easy to put together, as well. If she's 12, or thereabouts, she's old enough to make her own, for the clearly-marked new chart and pattern tissues are easy enough for any junior to follow unaided. There's a world of little girl charm in a Peter Pan collar, a smooth round yoke that's cut in one with the center panel—in sleeves that puff so daintily and in two snappy patch pockets. And what a nicely finished look that little easiness gives the entire effect. Challis, in her most becoming shade, would be both warm and practical for school. Long sleeves are included. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9532 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 2 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrasting.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Be sure to send for our new pattern book and see how easily your spring wardrobe can reflect the latest fashions! Dozens of smart models for every occasion—some sketched, some photographed. Send your order to the Santa Ana Journal, Pattern Department, 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Cal.

has been committed by Miss Whitney? A.—No, it is not my opinion that any crime has been committed.

On Page 183 Juror Woodward asks Mr. Menton: Q.—If you asked the auditor to give you a statement as to the dates for the past five months on which the county recorder has made her deposits and filed her certificates and from this report you learned that they were filed from ten to twenty days late, including this current month, would you, as district attorney, state that that clearly constituted a felony. A.—Yes.

MR. LAMBERT and his deputy didn't do the best team work in the world when they were called on separate occasions to tell why they hadn't taken a more active hand in reporting the irregular settlements.

Q.—(Mr. Hay asking Mr. Eckel) Did you make any report to the board of supervisors, or discuss the matter with any official of this county with respect to those delays from month to month? A.—I have several times discussed the matter with Mr. Menton, but I don't believe I ever discussed it with him unless there had been a prior discussion between him and Mr. Lambert.

Q.—Did you discuss the matter with Mr. Menton during the past month? A.—Yes, he has been in the office and discussed the matter with us. I think on one occasion with Mr. Lambert and myself both.

On Page 197 Mr. Newcom asks Mr. Eckels:

Q.—Do you recall personally of having discussed, or do you have any knowledge of Mr. Lambert having discussed, or revealed to the district attorney's office the fact that it (the September settlement) was delinquent? A.—I know that he had done that—yes sir.

Q.—The September payment due in October? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—In other words, the district attorney's office was in possession of the fact sometime during October? A.—Yes.

Q.—And prior to the 12th of November? A.—Yes sir.

NOW COMES Auditor Lambert himself. On Page 198, of the transcript, he is being quizzed by Foreman Hay.

Q.—Did you specifically mention to Mr. Menton the fact that the recorder's settlement for September was not received until on or about October 26? A.—I may not have told him the date, although I did tell him it was behind. I don't remember whether I told him exactly at the time the settlement was made, because I may have met Bill (Menton) in the hallway or in my office, or talked to him on some other matter, and as a rule when I go to Menton's office I will talk to him about three or four different matters at the same time.

Q.—But did you definitely advise him that the September collection— A.—No, I wouldn't say September; I am not sure about that. I am not sure whether I talked about September or not, but I might have talked to him in a general way.

Q.—Will you let me finish my question? Did you definitely talk to him about the September collections which are due to be paid over to the treasurer not later than Oct. 5 and advise him that they were not received until Oct. 26? A.—I can't say about that, Bill.

Then followed a series of questions in an effort to establish Mr. Lambert's responsibility.

MR. LAMBERT wasn't sure whether the law required him to report irregularities to the district attorney's office or not. He finally admitted he had reported the absence of an October report on Nov. 12, only seven days after it was due. Asked by Mr. Hay why he felt it incumbent upon him to notify the district attorney's office so promptly that time and had failed to report the delay in the July settlement, he said he guessed it was because Miss Whitney was away on vacation in July. Then there was the September delay. Mr. Hay wanted to know about that.

Q.—(By Mr. Hay) Why have you felt it was your duty to advise the district attorney's office of this fact (the October delay) on Nov. 12 when equally it was your duty to advise him on October 7? A.—(By Mr. Lambert) Well, it is probably because I didn't happen to think of it at that time, Bill.

Mr. Lambert finally asserted, in reply to questions by Juror Leydon, that he had told Mr. Menton in general of the frequent irregularities in September, while Mr. Menton was still chief district attorney. Mr. Lambert said Mr. Menton, as chief district attorney, had always handled affairs of this kind. He knew, and had known for a long time, all about the Whitney matter. Mr. Lambert said he doubted if S. B. Kaufman, former district attorney, ever knew much about Miss Whitney's affairs, so completely had the auditor's office had its dealings with Mr. Menton.

It remained for Juror Markel to bring out the classic. Questioning Mr. Lambert, he asked:

"Why, if it was not explained, did Mr. Lambert notify the district attorney of the November account which was just seven days late?"

A.—(By Mr. Lambert) I think the main reason is that for several weeks, at least, there has been several more or less rumors going around, and when these rumors started, why we really became a little more apprehensive about what it was all about.

"That is exactly why I asked the question," replied Juror Markel.

And a good time was had by all.

Diary: Bruce Bairns' father came with an autographed copy of "Old Bill Looks at Europe," newly printed. Then he broke fast with Verne Fortner, mighty dispirited over the passing of Ivan St. John.

And ran upon Bide Dudley and his daughter Doris, now a current stage beauty. So putting until Frank Hardy from California hove in with news of Jay Price. Later with my wife to a gallery to see a 17th century desk, but too costly for our purse and stopped to see Aubrey and Peggy Hoyt Eads. And down the avenue in a flurry of snow to Kathleen and Charles Norris' tea.

New York has taken to Shih I. Hsiung, the Chinese playwright, and his doll-like wife. Hsiung is here to direct his own play for Morris Gest, a play running 18 months in London. The playwright's wife Dymia, or "Black Plum Blossom," is a poet of some distinction. The husband speaks English fluently but his wife understands only a few phrases. But she trips after him demurely, Chinese fashion, to dinners, luncheons and teas, stirring New York out of customary yawn to murmur: "How cute!"

Jack Dempsey, in a becoming fatherly role, has become a familiar noon day sight along the Central Park Mall. He lives on the west side of the park and on account of his late restaurant hours the baby is out with a nurse for a sunning when he arises. So after his shower he likes to join his offspring and indulges that domestic gesture Louis Sobol calls "pushing the pram."

Helen Green used to turn out a bang-up series of articles for the Sunday edition of the old Morning Telegraph called "The All Night Drug Store" and interpolated with antics of the fascinating array of types at Madam De Shire's theatrical boarding house. The essays revealed the racy swiftness of the Broadway life of that day, the latest in bright bangles and the lowest in double dealing. I came upon a sheaf of them in an old chest the other day. Manners, talk and characters have changed little. With slight editing the articles might run today and synchronize perfectly with the current tempo.

The cafeterias have become crepes Suzette conscious. Here to fore this famous dessert has been reserved for such patrons of the Colony as Lucius Beebe and Frank Crowninshield. The blue flame of the crepes being fashioned at a table side was indicative of wealth and a plutocratic palate. An order ranged from 90 cents to $1.40. Several cafeterias now give them a window display in the manner of Childs butter cakes and serve them to customers for as little as 20 cents an order.

Retribution: Noel Coward recently forwarded to Alfred Lunt a headline from a London tabloid reading: "Bursting Hydrant Nearly Drowns $500 Dog."

One of Peter Arno's doughty clubmen was evidently paying off a bet on Madison avenue yesterday. He swirled out of an office building sprucely attired save for a brilliant Ascot tie, resurrected from heaven knows where, and wore it unashamedly. A classic in bold design, it was embroidered in flaming colors with a beer bottle, champagne glass, beer mug and the salutation "Cheerio!"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A drastic tax on upper bracket incomes and corporate profits in the event the U. S. becomes embroiled in a war is one of the major features of the neutrality legislation that members of the senate munitions investigating committee plan to offer at the coming session. . . . Unlike her cabinet colleague, Secretary Henry Wallace, who does not accept fees for making addresses, Miss Frances Perkins frequently collects honorariums. For a recent speech in Houston, Tex., she was paid $300 and expenses. . . . Chairman Bob Doughton, of the house ways and means committee, brought back an unusual trophy from the Philippines. It consists of a huge pair of carabao horns, which the lanky North Carolinian purchased for $4 after some sharp trading. The owner of the horns asked $7 for them when Doughton inquired their price. "Give you $4," Doughton replied. "Sold," said the Filipino. ("Shucks," Doughton remarked to a nearby friend, "I'll bet I could have got them for $3.")

SHIP SUBSIDIES

Senator Hugo Black, ocean-mail investigator, charges Assistant Commerce Secretary J. M. Johnson and "Admiral" J. C. Peacock, chairman of the shipping board, with under-cover efforts to force Karl A. Crowley, postoffice solicitor, to approve a ship subsidy bill they are framing. Black is threatening to take the senate floor and attack them publicly unless they abandon what he calls their sub rosa lobbying tactics. . . . The argument before the supreme court on the validity of the AAA processing tax on Louisiana rice was literally a battle of giants. John P. Bullington, Houston, Tex., lawyer who represented the attacking rice millers, is 6 feet 5 1/2 inches tall, and Assistant Attorney General Frank J. Wideman, who defended the law, stands 6 feet 4 1/2 inches. . . . Incidentally, official Washington looks for the court's momentous decision on the agricultural act to be handed down Jan. 6, when the "nine old men" reassemble after their holiday recess. . . . Despite the insistence of Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the secretary, that she did not want a chrysanthemum named after her, the gardener of her husband's department nevertheless did so; telling a newly developed bloom "Hilo." Mrs. Wallace's first name, "Hilo," was the name of the flower to which she was named.

To her objections that she did not want such publicity, the gardener informed her it was the custom to name a flower after the wife of each secretary of agriculture and he saw no reason for making an exception.

HUEY LONG VICTORY

After a secret state-wire check, political scouts have informed Democratic national headquarters that Representative Cleveland Dear, anti-Huey Long leader, has no chance of winning the special election for deceased Kingfish's senate seat. The agents reported that Long's henchmen have shrewdly built their campaign around Huey, with the result that he is as much a candidate as if he were alive and running. The scouts also brought back word that the

Some people are of the very earnest belief that liberty is no longer the most precious thing in life. They are tempted to applaud an exhibition of limitless power in government and to forget or ignore what happens to the soul of man.—Representative J. W. Wadsworth, Jr., New York.

If you want to change the world on the outside, you have got to change yourself, and everybody else, on the inside, for the New Deal will be in the ballot box or in a popular uprising, but in the well-springs of the human will.—Carl Vrooman, Bloomington, Ill.

Hugh Hougham believes that local retail business would improve if the parking problem was solved. The issue is any doubt about it. If the customer can find a place to put his car in reasonable proximity to the store in which he or she wishes to trade, that store is going to get the business. But if the proprietor's car or those belonging to the clerical force occupies the space wanted by the customer, the probabilities are that the business will either go to some other store, or out of town. However, the parking problem isn't one of my troubles. I walk.

After conversing with Stanley Morgan I've discovered how to increase your automobile expense. This is how: Neglect to pay your registration and vehicle license fee until after the thirtieth of next January, and the state will impose a double penalty. Of course you can avoid this expense by getting your cashier's check or money order into the Sacramento department of motor vehicles before that time.

If I were asked to suggest a New Year's resolution it would be for America to take the management of its own business in its own hands, directed along the lines laid down in the constitution, supported by red-blooded Americanism, with justice for all and malice toward none—except those who want to start a governmental upstart. And for that I'd put the heat on 'em so they could go some place and "enjoy" the theories of their personal preference. My opinion may be old-fashioned but it's still a part of my citizenship curriculum.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Wanna buy a duck? Oscar Carothers has one that can run the chromatic scale better than an opera singer. Oscar don't know one note from another, but his best fade-out I've ever heard. His diminuendos are perfect. When he gets to the last note it's as soft as a coed's love affair. The announcement note is clarion. And then on down the scale that duck falls with such beautiful semitones any desire to wring its neck fades out as soothingly as the last note in a symphony.

Former Mayor E. G. Warner, always interested in police work, makes an inquiry and gets the info wanted. During the conversation he recalled an event that happened during the recent city election, and when I suggested the use of coats instead of patience as a means of getting even he said it was too near the first of another year to carry over any hard feelings. Well, E. G., there is a lingering suspicion in my head that you have had some contact with the golden rule—but it must have been before the administration called in all of the yellow metal.

For the purpose of identification Ben MacMullen drags me over to the postoffice for an introduction to Postmaster Harwood, so he could extract in an official manner a registered letter. Ben had a small piece of yellow paper which required his signature before the letter was delivered. Well, about all I got from that transaction was the satisfaction of finding out that Ben could write his own name.

Tourist cars have been so noticeable this year in Southern California that it has revived the old Los Angeles chamber of commerce statement that the best crop is the tourist. He comes in with money and leaves most of it with us. It's imported cash, lifting the business curve upward, and bringing prosperity to many sections. Santa Ana has profited from the big backwash of tourist spending in Los Angeles. On the streets of our own city the presence of so many out-of-state cars has provoked frequent comment. Their presence indicates better conditions back home.

Met Martin Miller's face to face. He came over from Huntington Beach to see me and tell me about weather, curves, elevations, eccentricities, low and high pressures, etc., etc., etc., and that an east rain often came from the west. He says storms originating in the ocean area get to whirling, come in and strike the mountains and bounce back to the valleys. Now if Martin will just get 'em to bouncing right away he'll be the most popular weather forecaster in California and make some money which I want saved.

An Old Iowa friend sends me a Santa Anita race card, address and telephone number, but it is not enough. The following Santa Ana boys who are members of Kappa Alpha fraternity at Stanford university will be entertained at dinner in Los Angeles this evening by Mr. DeBolt: Dean Collier, Jack Visel, Stanley Visel, Tom Wotton, Arthur Lutz, Clyde Whitney and Lester Clardy.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—At the top of the enormous derrick in use at the factory site of the new Holly Sugar company factory now floats the American flag, its folds waving defiantly in the breeze of the broad Pacific. The first work on the main building of the plant was begun Wednesday afternoon, and it is expected that within a short while at least 100 men will be employed in building the plant.

Mrs. C. S. Crookshank and son, Ronald, returned to Santa Ana yesterday from Los Angeles where they visited with friends.

Edwin Reeves celebrated his birthday yesterday, and in honor of the event his mother, Mrs. H. Reeves, entertained the Santa Ana High school football team. Those present were Arthur Lutz, George Menges, Ray Catland, Arnold Peek, Royce Lantz, William Warren, Granville Tedford, Leroy Warren, Franklin Grounau, Lloyd Davies, Clarence Tedford, Homer Robinson, John Newcomer and Walter Reeves.

LOS ANGELES.—Coming to the ground with too much speed to make a safe landing before the wind that was blowing at an angle toward the grandstand, Glenn Martin, the amateur aviator of Santa Ana, ran his biplane into the fence and narrowly missed injuring Hubert Latham, the French aviator.

Reason given by Commissioner George C. Mathews for not resigning from the securities and exchange commission is antipathy for living in New York. He had expected to join the General Telephone Company with offices in Madison, Wis. However, when the company informed Mathews that offices would remain in New York, he declined the job and decided to stick with the SEC. Big utility companies were hoping Mathews would resign. . . . The usually close-mouthed Henry Morgenthau explained in great detail the other day why his treasury department had stopped buying silver. Then as newsmen were about to rush to the telephones, he made them promise not to print the story. . . . Postmaster General Farley was followed on a radio broadcast recently by Ann Corio, celebrated as America's premier burlesque strip artist. Miss Corio evinced great interest as large General Farley marched out of the studio, but Big Jim did not even glance at the prima donna. . . . When part of the American gun supply is moved to the new vault being constructed at Fort Knox, Ky., it will travel by parcel post. About two billions in bullion will be moved, chiefly from Denver, which recently received San Francisco's reserves.

THE YEAR runs to its zero level, like the last few grains of sand in the glass of time. The rushing weeks mount to the Christmas height and then drop to the drab realities of life.

It is the anti-climax of the novel; the denouement of the drama. The glamorous hero and the gilded actor drop their halo and tinsel, merging again with common folks.

The last week of the year seems so useless, a mere appendage to meaningless days. Because the sun requires a definite number of days to finish its journey we grudgingly grant these lagging hours.

And how they mock us with a plentitude of vexations—warned up turkey, turkey hash, turkey soup—until one secretly vows he will never look a turkey in the face again. And the interminable exchange of gifts which misguidedly has inflicted on its hapless victims.

And the hounded look of harassed clerks, smiling, wearily, with the cash register in reverse. "Merry Christmas" sounds so flat after frantic crowds have surged away, and the tumult and the shouting subside to fitful grumbling.
